City and State governmental entities operating in Seattle are not above the law. Their

By contrast the City's handling of the 1999 WTO protests resulted in adverse rulings from the Federal Courts against the City for its impermissible and excessive use of force against protesters.<sup>3</sup>

The City demonstrated that it could refrain from improperly harming protesters when, in 2017, more than 100,000 people flooded Seattle streets as part of the global Women's March. The SPD employed no resistance to this political demonstration that was not about the police.

Following centuries of systemic discrimination and abuse against Black people in America, on May 25, 2020, a 17-year-old teen captured cell phone footage of George Floyd's murder by police. The public horror of watching Mr. Floyd's killing by law enforcement generated a spark that ignited nationwide civil unrest to a degree perhaps not seen in a generation.

This lawsuit is filed on behalf of peaceful protesters in Seattle, all of whom were cloaked within the power of the Washington State Constitution to engage in Freedom of Speech and Assemblage on behalf The Black Lives Matter Movement and George Floyd.

This case alleges that in response to protests against police discrimination and brutality,

1 the SPD chose to engage in discrimination and brutality. The SPD defied conditions of a Federal 2 Consent Decree and violated its own policies, practices and procedures. BLACK LIVES MATTER PROTESTERS FOR WRONGFUL DEATH, PERSONAL INJURIES, AND CIVIL RIGHTS VIOLATIONS - 10

STRITMATTER KESSLER KOEHLER MOORE 3600 15th Ave West, Suite 300 Seattle, WA 98119

For over 20 years, the Seattle Police Department (SPD) has had many opportunities to learn from its mistakes involving excessive use of force, particularly against People of Color; as well as its indiscriminate and excessive use of "less lethal" Crowd Control Weapons in response to protected speech.

1999 World Trade Organization Protests

- 5.2 In 1999, protests occurred when the World Trade Organization (WTO) Ministerial Conference was held in Seattle. Protesters focused on issues including workers' rights, sustainable economies, and environmental and social issues.<sup>5</sup>
- 5.3 Both the Mayor of Seattle and the Governor declared a state of emergency in response to the protests. The City was criticized worldwide for mishandling the protests and for being unprepared.6
- Months of analysis followed the WTO, exploring issues surrounding the rights of free 5.4 speech and assembly, abuse by law enforcement officers, and mistreatment of individuals taken into custody. 7 Class action lawsuits resulted in the City agreeing to pay $1,250,000, sealing all the protesters' arrest records, requesting that other government agencies expunge the arrests from their records, and incorporating into its police training the federal court decision holding that police lacked probable cause for the arrests.<sup>8</sup>

2012 Department of Justice Consent Decree

- 5.5 Ten years after WTO, 35 community organizations wrote the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) and United States Attorney Jenny Durkan (current City Mayor), to request investigation of the SPD's use of excessive force, particularly against People of Color.<sup>9</sup>
- 5.6 The DOJ completed its investigation in 2011 and issued a report documenting a "pattern or practice of constitutional violations regarding the use of force that result from structural problems, as well as serious concerns about biased policing." This report was signed by Jenny Durkan. <sup>10</sup>
- 5.7 In 2012, the United States and Seattle entered a Consent Decree requiring significant reforms of the SPD, including new use-of-force policies and trainings that emphasize de-1 escalation, as well as new supervision and oversight with community involvement. 11 2 3 2015 Black Lives Matter Protests and May Day 2015 In 2015, the Community Police Commission (CPC)<sup>12</sup> made recommendations specifically 4 5.8 5 in response to the SPD's handling of Black Lives Matter marches in the wake of the events in Ferguson, Missouri, 13 as well as the events of May Day 2015. 14 The key issues raised 6 7 by the CPC included: 8 Movement control and permitting selective access depending on perceived affiliation with a demonstration (herding or directing marchers away from their intended 9 destinations, elevating business interests over the free speech rights of demonstrators). 10 Inaccurate statements made by SPD leadership that diminished public trust (denying that the movement of marchers was curtailed and inaccurately describing an "assault" on an officer who in fact fell during a march). 11 Targeting specific individuals such as leaders of demonstrations (giving the impression 12 that SPD was trying to demobilize the demonstration rather than make enforcement actions based on the alleged criminal behavior of particular individuals). 13 Out of policy/harmful use of pepper spray, blast balls and other projectiles (spraying 14 peaceful demonstrators with pepper spray, using blast balls in the immediate vicinity of masses of demonstrators causing significant and painful injury). 15 Unnecessary use of intimidating tactics (deploying a disproportionate number of 16 officers in "riot gear" to relatively small events and marches). 17 Disparate responses to demonstrators of different racial and perceived political identities (treating white demonstrators differently than People of Color, uttering racial 18 <sup>11</sup> United States v. City of Seattle, 2:12-cv-01282-JLR, Doc. 3-1, Settlement Agreement and Stipulated Order of 19 Resolution (July 27, 2012). <sup>12</sup> The CPC was created by the Consent Decree to "promote greater transparency and public understanding of the 20 Seattle Police Department" and charged with reviewing the police accountability system and making any necessary recommendations. Members are representative of "the many and diverse communities in Seattle, including 21 members from each precinct of the city, police personnel, faith communities, minority, ethnic, and other community organizations, and student or youth organizations." <sup>13</sup> On August 9, 2014, Michael Brown, an 18-year-old Black male, was shot and killed by police officer Darren 22 Wilson in Ferguson, Missouri. Demonstrations were held in Seattle near the end of 2014, after a Missouri grand jury failed to indict Officer Wilson. 23 <sup>14</sup> May 1, also known as International Workers' Day, annually draws gatherings, marches, demonstrations, and protests in Seattle. Although many of these events are peaceful, May Day has also resulted in violence. COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES ON BEHALF OF 24

5.9 The Seattle City Council is the legislative body of the city. The Council develops laws and policies intended to promote the health and safety of Seattle's residents. The Council passes all legislation related to the city's police. 16

5.10 City Council members criticized the SPD's handling of May Day 2015, including an incident where a police officer rode his bike directly into a group of protesters, from behind, tackling one of them. Council Member Bruce Harrell called this: "the first act of violence, the first act of unfairness... that created the melee"). The Council also condemned the SPD's use of "blast balls" causing injuries to protesters and at least two reporters. The SPD's own blast ball training video at the time explicitly warned against throwing them into crowds. 17

10	Changing how blast balls are inventoried and controlled within the SPD ("These devices are munitions and must be treated as such").

protests and demonstrations, specifically by looking beyond sources with military experience in order to search for best practices for supporting the free expression of public protests while limiting the use of force necessary to promote public safety, and by seeking "an effective means by which Seattle's many diverse peoples and neighborhoods can actively participate in this process and communicate to SPD how they want their police service to handle protests and demonstrations in their city."<sup>21</sup>

5.13 Chief O'Toole quickly acknowledged and responded to the OPA's concerns, noting:

Because we in Seattle, including the SPD, are so committed to supporting First Amendment rights to assemble and be heard, we find ourselves very much at the forefront of developing an approach that will ensure our ability to facilitate demonstrations of this type, while at the same time protecting persons and property from the violence and destruction that, unfortunately, seems to occur each year. We know that the work we are doing now, in collaboration with our federal partners, the Monitoring Team, and a team of nationally recognized experts, may ultimately serve as a model for other agencies around the country, and we take seriously the importance of developing policies and procedures that are well researched, well informed and – importantly – workable in practice. <sup>22</sup>

5.14 Mr. Ijames issued his report to the SPD in April 2016, shortly before May Day 2016. Yet he was not as "independent" as Chief O'Toole led the public to believe. Before he was selected, Mr. Ijames and Chief O'Toole had a prior working relationship. In his initial communications with the SPD, he stated he was "fine working void of payment," noting that "In some cases, payment can impact-most often negatively-how findings are perceived." After Mr. Ijames issued his preliminary report on April 10, 2016, the SPD made numerous revisions to his report based upon documents he had not seen – revisions that he rapidly accepted.<sup>23</sup>

2016 just as in the year before, the SPD engaged in similar excessive use of force and excessive use of Crowd Control Weapons.

5.21 After examining SPD's continuation of its prior dangerous tactics, the CPC specifically called for the immediate cessation of blast ball use. The CPC noted that, despite its warnings and recommendations, the injuries incurred by numerous non-violent observers on May Day 2016 demonstrated that "further examination of the use of these tools [was] warranted."<sup>29</sup>

5.22 The SPD never stopped using blast balls during mass protest or crowd control events.

Disciplinary and Accountability Failures

5.23 The SPD's problems throughout the past decade are not limited to the excessive use of force, excessive use of Crowd Control Weapons, and disparate treatment of People of Color. The SPD has also experienced significant discipline and accountability failures.

- 5.24 In 2014, following a scandal caused by a new Interim Chief of Police reversing several findings of officer misconduct and discipline orders, the CPC provided the Mayor, City Council, and City Attorney a thorough set of Accountability System Recommendations developed with input from civilian oversight experts and community leaders.<sup>30</sup>
- 5.25 In 2017, the City Council unanimously passed, and the Mayor signed, Accountability Ordinance No. 125315, creating an integrated structure of community input and civilian oversight through a new Office of Inspector General (OIG), a strengthened Office of Police Accountability (OPA), and a permanent Community Police Commission (CPC). 31
- 5.26 The Accountability Ordinance would have altered the disciplinary appeals process by replacing the existing, officer-biased system with one that heavily deferred to the police chief's disciplinary decision, confining its appeal review to "whether the employee's removal... was made in good faith for cause." 32
- 5.27 A couple months later, the City Council also unanimously adopted Seattle Municipal Code 14.11 regarding Bias-Free Policing. The code forbids selective enforcement or nonenforcement, "the effect of which is to adversely affect or differentiate between or among individuals or groups of individuals... because of race... or political ideology." This Code strengthened a policy that had been in place since 2015, meant to encourage police officers to speak out against and report incidents of biased-based policing. The policies place the City had fallen out of compliance with the Consent Decree. He specifically criticized the SPOG CBA on the basis that it "(1) retains significant attributes of the old appeals system that the parties admit needs reform, and (2) abrogates critical reforms in the Accountability Ordinance that the parties put in place," specifically reforms relating to useof-force, the supervision of officers, and community confidence.<sup>37</sup>

On May 7, 2020, shortly before the BLM/George Floyd protests began, the City sought termination of at least some of the Consent Decree sustainment plan provisions despite its continued lack of compliance with the Consent Decree. The City did not address the Court's May 2019 finding that it had fallen out of compliance with the Consent Decree in the areas of discipline and accountability, or the Court's order requiring the City to bring itself back into compliance in these areas. The City simply said it "has taken significant steps to address these concerns and will submit a filing responding to them by August 1, 2020."38

On June 3, 2020, after the OPA had received approximately 12,000 complaints concerning the SPD's response to the first weekend of the BLM/George Floyd protests,<sup>39</sup> the City withdrew its May 7, 2020 Motion seeking termination of the sustainment provisions.<sup>40</sup>

4		Systemic Racism, Black Lives Matter, and the Importance of the Right to Protest
5	5.35	White supremacy is a lethal public health issue.
6	5.36	The United States Department of Homeland Security has classified white supremacists as
7		the most "persistent and lethal threat" in the United States. The Department predicts an
8		"elevated threat environment" at least through early 2021. 41
9	5.37	America's long history of white supremacy has led to systemic racism. Racial stratification,
10		stereotypes, and biases are embedded in American institutions.
11	5.38	Among the most pernicious contributors to systemic racism is the justice system, and its
12		frontline - American policing, which has long suffered from an epidemic of violence
13		against Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPoCs). 42
14	5.39	The Black Lives Matter (BLM) movement has arisen in the past decade as a political and
15		social movement advocating for non-violent civil disobedience in protest against incidents
16		of police brutality and racially motivated violence against Black people. <sup>43</sup>
17	5.40	Protests, particularly those on issues of civil rights, have played pivotal roles in our nation's
18		history, and are entitled to the fullest extent of First Amendment protections.
19		The Spark – George Floyd
20	5.41	On May 25, 2020, George Floyd was murdered in Minneapolis, Minnesota by the police.

Mr. Floyd, a Black man, was accused of a non-violent offense – attempting to use a counterfeit $20 bill. During his arrest, while he was lying on the ground, handcuffed and restrained, a police officer placed his knee and the weight of his body on Mr. Floyd's neck. Three other officers at the scene placed their bodies on top of Mr. Floyd and otherwise participated. For nearly nine minutes, Mr. Floyd struggled to breathe and pleaded for mercy, until he lost consciousness and died. Bystanders were warned away, threatened by the police and not allowed to intervene. A 17-year old teenager captured the event on their cell phone.

- George Floyd's murder by police was undisputable due to the video evidence, eyewitness reports, and forensic analysis. Throughout modern history, untold numbers of Black people have been injured or killed by police across the country due to excessive force. But it was George Floyd's horrendous murder that was the final spark that lit the fire causing a nationwide mass protest movement.
- 5.43 Seattle has been one of the epicenters of the BLM/George Floyd protests. This is in part due to increasing public awareness and condemnation of police shooting cases resulting in the killing of numerous local Black and minority people who either had called for help (as in the case of Charleena Lyles who was having a mental health episode), or who were shot to death on the pretext that they were threatening officers with deadly weapons that did not in fact exist (as in the case of Tommy Le who was holding a pen).

- "Everyone has the freedom and the right to demonstrate and speak their mind." 48
- "If you choose to protest today, please be safe and peaceful. These are important issues that deserve our full attention, without distraction from violence and destruction. Without solutions to inequity, the long road to justice will run even longer." 49
- "Thousands were protesting peacefully against an atrocious act of brutality. This cause confronts a different kind of destruction, one that can't be fixed with new windows, graffiti-scrubbed walls or insurance. The message behind the demonstration was compelling and one all of us should share. We will not allow vandalism and destruction to obscure the protest's central call for justice." <sup>50</sup>
- "On behalf of all Washingtonians who believe in justice, I want to thank the protesters who carried a peaceful and important message." <sup>51</sup>

5.49 Mayor Jenny Durkan

- "This is an opportunity for community to righteously express anger at the systemic inequities that continue to pollute our society. I support our residents right to assemble and I am glad they are doing so. I am hopeful that through this time of grief and anger, we will be able to channel this energy into sustained, systemic reform across our country." 52
- "I am grateful for all those who peacefully marched and protested in Othello, and throughout our City, today and every day. By the thousands, we have seen people march in almost every part of town. This has been an incredibly painful week for our City and our country. One that is shining the light yet again on hundreds of years of racism and injustice that has haunted our past and continues to our present. It is a moment that summons all of us including me to do more and to do better. Pain and anguish have brought out thousands of our neighbors to protest and demand action. They must be heard. We must act. And we are." 53
- "Here in Seattle, people are protesting a culture of systemic racism and police actions that exists right in our backyard. There have been black and brown people killed by police here in Seattle. John T. Williams, Che Taylor, Charleena Lyles and so many more. Their lives have been cut short because of an interaction with the police that serve us. They're protesting a culture that can use force before de-escalation, and they're protesting a government and a culture that perpetuates systemic inequities that impact people of color, particularly Black Americans. People are rightfully protesting how we can be better as a City and make real changes."54

5.50 Then-Seattle Police Chief Carmen Best

- "Our policies and training are built around maximizing the exercise of free speech without officer intervention. The Seattle Police Department will continue to support the peaceful exercise of First Amendment rights."55
- "The Seattle Police Department was prepared to facilitate the peaceful exercise of First Amendment rights. In the aftermath of the murder of George Floyd we all are rightfully angry, sad, frustrated, and heartbroken."56
- 5.51 Despite the statements of elected officials and other city leaders, the City and SPD reenacted their prior haphazard and improper responses during the BLM/George Floyd protests – demonstrating yet again that the SPD's use of force violates the Washington Constitution and tort law.
- 5.52 The City and SPD deployed a disproportionate number of officers, often in full "riot gear,"57 in an intimidating and instigating manner, escalating rather than de-escalating conflict.
- 5.53 The City and SPD have improperly kettled, corralled, and dispersed peaceful protesters without cause or adherence to protocol, frustrating and infringing upon the protester's constitutional rights to speech and assembly.

2		spray, blast balls, flash-bang grenades, tear gas, shot kinetic impact projectiles, and other
3		physical violence, in excessive, out of policy, and harmful ways.
4	5.55	The City and SPD have targeted not just protesters, but also legal observers, journalists,
5		medical personnel attempting to render aid to the injured, and in some cases, those who are
6		of advanced age, disabled, and young children.
7	5.56	The City and SPD have created pretexts to justify the use of force. They have invoked
8		Covid-19 restrictions to impose unwarranted curfews so that at any random hour SPD could
9		feel justified in implementing excessive force to disperse the protesters. Not surprisingly,
10		the force employed put protesters at increased risk of Covid-19 infection by causing them
11		to cry, cough, vomit, rub their faces, remove tear gas and pepper spray-soaked masks, and
12		by exposing their airways to chemical and respiratory irritants.
13	5.57	The City and SPD have spread other misinformation and disinformation about the protests,
14		painting the protests and protesters in a negative light in order to justify the unconstitutional
15		and improper tactics. <sup>58</sup>
16	5.58	The City and SPD's response to BLM/George Floyd protests appear to be more negative
17		and violent than before – seemingly because the protesters' messages speak out in favor of
18		the BLM movement, and against police brutality.
19		SPD Use of Force Policies
20	5.59	The SPD's disparately negative response is evidenced in part by its failure to follow the

1. Use of Force: When Authorized

An officer shall use only the force objectively reasonable, necessary, and proportional to effectively bring an incident or person under control, while protecting the life and safety of all persons.

In other words, officers shall only use objectively reasonable force, proportional to the threat or urgency of the situation, when necessary, to achieve a law-enforcement objective. The force used must comply with federal and state law and Seattle Police Department policies, and rules for specific weapons and tools. See 8.300 - Use of Force Tools. Once it is safe to do so and the threat has ended, the force must stop.

2. Use of Force: When Prohibited

- An officer will not use force to punish or retaliate
- An officer will not use force against individuals who only verbally confront them unless the vocalization impedes a legitimate law enforcement function (See 5.160 Observation of Officers).

3. Officers Should Assess and Modulate the Use-Of-Force as Resistance Changes

For example, as resistance decreases, the use of force may decrease.

5.61 SPD Manual, Section 8.100 regarding De-Escalation, states:

De-escalation may take the form of scene management, team tactics, and/or individual engagement. Event when individual engagement is not feasible, de-escalation techniques including scene management and team tactics such as time, distance, and shielding, should still be used unless doing so would create undue risk of harm to any person due to the exigency/threat of a situation.

De-escalation tactics and techniques are actions used by officers, when safe and feasible without compromising law enforcement priorities, that seek to minimize the likelihood of the need to use force during an incident and increase the likelihood of voluntary compliance. See definition of deescalation in 8.050.

When safe and feasible under the totality of the circumstances, officers shall attempt to slow down or stabilize the situation so that more time, options,

1		and resources are available for incident resolution.
2		The overall goal of this policy is to promote thoughtful resolutions to situations and to reduce the likelihood of harm to all persons involved.
3	5.62	Section 8.050 of the Manual defines "De-escalation, as:
5		Taking action to stabilize the situation and reduce the immediacy of the threat so that more time, options, and resources are available to resolve the
6		situation. The goal of de-escalation is to gain the voluntary compliance of subjects, when feasible, and thereby reduce or eliminate the necessity to use physical force.
7	5.63	The three primary components of traditional de-escalation are time, distance, and shielding.
8		With time, the situation can be slowed down or even stabilized. Further action may not be
9		necessary or additional resources can be called to assist or reduce the necessity of force.
10	5.64	With distance, the individual is kept further from the officer and others, lessoning potential
11		safety threats, reducing the need for higher levels of force, and ideally creating more time
12		for thoughtful action.
13	5.65	Shielding allows officers interacting with an armed individual to have a physical barrier or
14		keep distance so the officer can create space and time to try to resolve the problem
15		peacefully.
16	5.66	De-escalation tactics, properly employed, are methods by which confrontations can be
17		handled safely and without resorting to violence or weapons.
18		Chemical Agents
19	5.67	According to the American Lung Association, tear gas is comprised of chloroacetophenone
20		(CN) a toxic air pollutant, chloropicrin (PS), chlorobenzylidenemalononitrile (CS),
21		bromobenzylcyanide (CA) and dibenzoxazepine (CR). Tear gas causes both short- and
22		long-term health conditions, including permanent disability and death. The ALA explains:

deploying tear gas. Also, "[t]he training and certification required of SWAT officers is extensive and not comparable to that required of patrol. Use of less lethal weapons by SWAT in their ordinary operations provides options, other than lethal force, to address incidents like barricaded individuals and hostage situations."

- 5.73 SPD Manual, Section 8.300 regarding OC Spray (pepper spray), requires:
  - It may only be used when such force is objectively reasonable, necessary, and proportional to the threat or resistance of a subject.
  - Officers must warn the subject and allow the subject to comply, prior to use.
  - Officers must justify each separate application of OC Spray.
  - Officers must direct OC Spray only at subjects posing a threat.
- 5.74 SPD Manual, Section 14.090 regarding crowd management states:
  - Officers may only make individual decisions to deploy OC spray when its use is consistent with Title 8 Use-of-Force.
  - Only the Incident Commander has the authority to direct the use of OC Spray to disperse a crowd, after a determination that there are acts or conduct within a group of four or more persons that create a substantial risk of causing injury to any person or substantial harm to property.
    - o Before ordering that the crowd be dispersed, the Incident Commander must consider whether less restrictive means of crowd management are available.
    - o Upon determining that dispersal is appropriate, the Incident Commander shall ensure that there is an avenue of egress sufficient to allow the crowd to depart.
    - The Incident Commander or designee must issue the order to disperse prior to instructing officers to disperse the crowd, if feasible.
  - A lieutenant may authorize the use of OC spray to disperse a crowd, but only if an immediate life safety emergency exists that requires this action be taken and there is insufficient time to obtain incident command approval.

1 "Less Lethal" Munitions 2 5.75 Rubber bullets, plastic bullets, baton rounds, bean bag rounds, and shot pellets, are kinetic impact projectiles used as an alternative to normal ammunition. While they are less lethal 3 than normal bullets, they are hardly safe. 4 5 5.76 SPD Manual, Section 8.300, allows use of 40 mm "Less Lethal" Launchers (a.k.a. "Blue 6 Nose" Launchers) only when a subject poses an immediate threat of harm to a person, or 7 "when public safety interests dictate that a subject needs to be taken into custody and the level of resistance... is likely to cause injury to the officer," or if "other force options would 8 9 be likely to cause greater injury than the 40 mm Less Lethal Impact Munition." Officers 10 must also consider the risk of the 40 mm round causing serious harm when determining 11 whether to deploy the weapon. 12 5.77 According to reviews by the Seattle OIG, only SWAT is authorized to use the 40 mm "Less Lethal" Launchers in crowd management situations. 64 13 5.78 Noise Flash Diversionary Devices (NFDDs or "flash bangs") and blast balls are different 14 15 forms of less lethal weapons, designed to create diversionary light and sound. Per SPD policy, only SWAT is authorized to use flash bangs, whereas officers are permitted to use 16 blast balls.65 17 18 5.79 However, as the SPD well knows, blast balls can be just as dangerous as flash bangs. 19 5.80 The SPD is fully aware of the risks of less lethal weapons, having used them in the past, 20 and having been warned of their risks and potential lethality by multiple sources, including 21 22 <sup>64</sup> https://www.seattle.gov/Documents/Departments/OIG/Other/LessLethalWeaponsUsage06122020.pdf (June 12, 2020). 23 65 https://www.seattle.gov/Documents/Departments/OIG/Other/LessLethalWeaponsUsage06122020.pdf (June 12, 2020). 24

• A lieutenant may authorize the use of blast balls to disperse a crowd, but only if an immediate life safety emergency exists that requires this action be taken and there is insufficient time to obtain incident command approval.

In response to the BLM/George Floyd Protests, the SPD discarded its lessons from the previous twenty years, its own policies and practices, the mandates of the federal Consent Decree, and the federal and State constitutions.

Police Response to BLM/George Floyd Protests

5.85 On May 30, 2020, the second day of the protests, Mayor Durkan spontaneously announced a 5:00 pm curfew – tweeting at 4:46 pm that she would "soon be signing an emergency order." Shortly after 5 pm, despite lack of reasonable notice of the curfew to the protesters, under the pretext of enforcing the "curfew," the SPD forcibly dispersed large groups of people in downtown Seattle using "less lethal" Crowd Control Weapons.

5.86 On May 31, 2020, the third day of the protests, then-Chief Best authorized the use of tear gas by patrol officers who were neither trained nor authorized to use tear gas by standard

1		SPD policy. <sup>68</sup>
2	5.87	Chief Best also authorized the use of 40 mm launchers by patrol officers who were
3		normally not authorized to use the launchers during crowd management events. <sup>69</sup>
4	5.88	The SPD justified these exemptions due to "equipment shortages" of blast balls and OC
5		spray.
6	5.89	The SPD used so much OC spray and so many blast balls in the first days of the protests,
7		they began to run out. This is why they chose to use tear gas – an indiscriminate weapon
8		outlawed in warfare and condemned by groups like Amnesty International. <sup>70</sup>
9	5.90	Chief Best's authorization required that these exemptions be applied "consistent with" Title
10		8 of the SPD Policy Manual governing use of force. <sup>71</sup>
11	5.91	The SPD has no policies or training on how officers should use tear gas for crowd control.
12		Instead, officers were instructed to use tear gas the same way they would use OC spray <sup>72</sup>
13		- even though the weapons are a completely different both chemically and tactically.
14	5.92	On June 5, 2020, in a rare joint recommendation, the CPC, OIG, and OPA recommended
15		the SPD immediately stop using tear gas in response to First Amendment activity. <sup>73</sup>

5.103 On June 12, 2020, United States District Court Judge Richard A. Jones acknowledged the excessiveness of SPD's tactics and granted a Temporary Restraining Order enjoining the SPD for 14 days from "employing chemical irritants or projectiles of any kind against persons peacefully engaging in protests or demonstrations."<sup>83</sup>

• "People have a right to demons

• "People have a right to demonstrate and protest government officials, police officers being no exception. Their right to do so, without fear of government retaliation, is guaranteed by the First and Fourth Amendments."

- "Since 'time immemorial,' city streets and sidewalks have been deemed public fora, and as such any First Amendment restrictions placed on them are subject to a particularly high degree of scrutiny."
- "Plaintiffs show that they were engaged in the constitutional right to protest police brutality. They exercised their right on public fora."
- "On this record, their protests have been passionate but peaceful, and they must thus be protected even if they stand in opposition to the police. The video and testimonial evidence reveal as much."
- As to the threats posed by non-peaceful protesters, "the proper response to potential and actual violence is for the government to ensure an adequate police presence, and to arrest those who actually engage in such conduct, rather than to suppress legitimate First Amendment conduct as a prophylactic measure."
- Rather, "[t]he use of indiscriminate weapons against all protesters—not just the violent ones—supports the inference that SPD's actions were substantially motivated by Plaintiffs' protected First Amendment activity."
- "SPD's actions would chill a person of ordinary firmness from continuing to protest... SPD's use of less-lethal, crowd control weapons have surely chilled speech... The same is true for the projectiles that SPD fires into crowds, which can cause intense pain and bruising."
- "Both testimonial and video evidence establish that SPD likely violated Plaintiffs' Fourth Amendment rights..." "The Ninth Circuit has held that it is unreasonable to use pepper spray, projectile bean bags, and pepper ball projectiles against individuals 'who were suspected of only minor criminal activity, offered only passive resistance, and posed little to no threat of harm to others." 5.105 Three days later, on June 15, 2020, Seattle's City Council unanimously passed Ordinance No. 126102, banning police from using crowd control weapons, including kinetic impact projectiles and chemical irritants. This Ordinance also placed restrictions on the use of OC

- On June 17, 2020, in the federal case before Judge Jones, the City of Seattle entered into a stipulated Preliminary Injunction extending the effects of the Temporary Restraining Order though September 30, 2020. In the injunction, the City agreed to stop indiscriminate use of chemical irritants and projectiles, and promised to only target force at persons at risk of "specific imminent threat of physical harm to themselves or identifiable others or to respond to specific acts of violence or destruction of property."86

5.115 On January 28, 2017, spontaneous protests filled SeaTac International Airport in response to an executive order which abruptly halted immigration and all travel to the United States from a list of Muslim-majority countries. SPD on scene to back up Port police did no more than form bicycle lines. No arrests were made. Chemical agents, munitions, batons, or violence of any kind were not employed by the police. The protests were heated, but the police non-intervention response did not escalate the protests.<sup>93</sup>

5.116 On the second day of mass protests against the travel ban, thousands of people gathered at Westlake Park, spilling into surrounding streets. 94 Again, police presence was minimal. SPD officers appeared in their usual uniforms and did not use riot gear. The crowd chanted and listened to speakers. There were no arrests, no police show of force, and no police violence.

As noted above, in 2017 SPOG negotiated a police contract with the City that rolled back the stricter appeals reforms established by Accountability Ordinance No. 125315, reestablished the prior officer-biased appeals process and ultimately led Judge Robart to rule in 2019 that the City had fallen out of full and effective compliance with the Consent Decree in discipline and accountability.

- 5.128 On the heels of that order, SPOG had its first contested Presidential election in years, pitting incumbent "soft-spoken moderate" Kevin Stuckey against "vocal hard-liner" Mike Solan. 101
- 5.129 Solan ran on the slogan "It's Time to Get Serious," arguing he was the better candidate to lead SPOG at a time when police are "under unreasonable levels of scrutiny both locally and nationally." Solan bragged that he led the statewide campaign against Initiative 940, the police-reform measure overwhelmingly approved by voters in 2018. And he published dramatic campaign videos decrying the "anti-police activist agenda that is driving Seattle's politics."102
- 5.130 In early 2020, Solan was elected president of SPOG by an overwhelming majority of union voters, capturing more than 500 of the 750 votes cast – a large turnout for the union representing at the time over 1,250 officers and sergeants. Former SPOG President Rich O'Neill said to reporters at the time, "From what I'm hearing, it was a lot of younger

5.131 In a June 2020 press conference about the BLM/George Floyd protests, President Solan:

- Derisively referred to community concerns over "mourning badges" covering badge numbers of officers as "angst." (This cover-up of badge numbers being a concern that has been raised repeatedly in past years with regard to identifying officers and holding them accountable for their actions in mass protest situations).
- Collectively referred to all individuals who protested "at night" (which he defined as starting around 4pm) in the area of 11th and Pine (the East Precinct in Capitol Hill) as "criminal agitators," even though the vast majority of the protesters were peacefully exercising their rights to free speech and assembly, speaking out against racism and police brutality.
- Expressed hostility towards the protesters' rhetoric (i.e. their free speech), calling it "unconscionable verbiage hurled at our officers."
- Supported and encouraged the use of tear gas, calling it a "less lethal tool that is effective in restoring public order," <sup>104</sup> describing it as the "the only tool that's effective for us to be able to hold this facility [the East Precinct] and protect our people."
- Dismissively replied to a reporter's question about the propriety of using tear gas in this era of Covid-19, "you're going to have to ask a medical expert about that." 105
- 5.132 Regarding the abandonment of the East Precinct by the City and the SPD (and the subsequent formation of CHAZ/CHOP), President Solan has repeatedly described it as a "surrender," even asking "What's to stop these unreasonable activists to take another precinct, say, the flagship precinct of the Seattle Police Department, the West Precinct, which houses the 911 call center?" <sup>106</sup> Mr. Solan was suggesting a danger of mass insurrection that never existed.

5.142 SPOG, its members, and its leaders, including President Solan, have repeatedly presented slanted, misleading, or false narratives regarding Black people, People of Color, Black Lives Matter protesters, and BLM/George Floyd protesters specifically, fomenting a toxic us-versus-them, militaristic attitude amongst the Seattle police force. These actions represent unexamined systemic racism throughout the SPD.

5.143 These actions have served to excuse and even encourage the SPD's excessive and unreasonable use of force, as well as discrimination against Black people, People of Color, Black Lives Matter protesters, and BLM/George Floyd protesters specifically, both in the past and in the future.

WRONGFUL DEATH, PERSONAL INJURIES, AND CIVIL RIGHTS VIOLATIONS - 52

Oversight of the SPD's Response to the BLM/George Floyd Protests

- The full extent of what the SPD did and why during the BLM/George Floyd protests is still unfolding. This office has issued Public Records Requests for documentation such as police reports, body camera videos, etc.; the City has responded that it will take six months to a year before any type of a response will be provided – despite the fact that similar body camera evidence has been released to the public when it suited the police, edited and set to dramatic and ominous music. 117
- 5.145 Even so, some preliminary information has come to light, including numerous observations by the various agencies and organizations tasked with monitoring the SPD.
- 5.146 Observations by the Seattle Office of Police Accountability (OPA): 118
  - The OPA expressed concern regarding "the sheer amount of force used by SPD over the last two months, which appears to represent a significant departure from previous demonstrations."
  - "...officers were sent to confront crowds with no clear strategy or plan behind the deployment," which led to a pattern of using force to temporarily remove crowds from certain areas, only for demonstrators to return and for the pattern to repeat itself. "Frontline officers and supervisors sometimes appeared to be improvising their responses to the crowd in the apparent absence of clear directions from an incident commander.... These types of uses of force served no clear law enforcement purpose: they did not prevent property damage, effectively disperse the crowd, or allow peaceful demonstrators their right to protest."
  - The OPA expressed concern that the SPD's Incident Action Plans (IAPs), prepared prior to each demonstration to lay out SPD's objectives in responding to the demonstrations, were "too vague and do not provide the guidance officers and supervisors need to handle a demonstration." For example, a recent IAP declared the following objective: "Provide for the safety of the first responders, general public, spectators, and participants by maintaining a police presence that will give officers the ability to respond to any gathering that may impact public safety." The objectives and even "special instructions" for responding officers were frequently copied from one day's IAP into the next, "with no differentiation between them." "The lack of any written contingency plan prevents OPA from evaluating an incident commander's planning for a demonstration and leaves front-line supervisors and officers without clear instructions about what to do if communications with the incident commander break down."

- "...at times, SPD deployed large groups of officers for reasons that are unclear. Not only does this create the risk of unnecessary escalation, it also forces officers into a situation where they become targets for anyone in the crowd who seeks to engage or harm them."
- "...SPD officers at times did not have access to or bring to demonstrations an appropriate public address system." "The absence of an appropriate public address system at a demonstration is problematic because in the event that commanders need to disperse a crowd, they are left with the choice of either waiting for a patrol vehicle to arrive or dispersing the crowd without giving an appropriate public safety order. It also makes it virtually impossible for SPD to give appropriate warnings to demonstrators when unlawful conduct occurs.... The use of force on community members who have not been given an audible dispersal order has the potential to cause physical harm, escalates tensions and undermines public trust."
- "OPA has received numerous complaints from community members who contend that they or others were subjected to the use of less-lethal weapons despite having done nothing wrong. Although these incidents are still under investigation, they highlight the secondary effects that the use of less-lethal tools can have on peaceful demonstrators and on public trust in SPD."

5.147 Observations by the Seattle Office of Inspector General (OIG): 119

- "Although the SPD crowd dispersal policy is clear as to the conditions under which crowds can be dispersed and less lethal force can be used, the general nature of the policy reduces crowd status to two conditions: lawful, and unlawful. In a very general sense, protestors are allowed to assemble, until they are not. The transition from managing a lawful demonstration to dispersing an unlawful assembly has the potential to be abrupt and confusing to non-violent participants in the crowd who are unaware of violence occurring elsewhere in the crowd, and who then may become understandably angry when subjected to unexpected force."
- "OIG identified that there are limited opportunities for officers to gain proficiency and experience with practice in using [blast balls and the 40mm launcher]. Practice munitions are not available to officers for the 40mm launcher outside of annual qualification requirements, and officers may not have an opportunity to deploy live blast balls during annual re-training, depending on supply.."

- "...the Chief of Police made a policy decision to authorize patrol officers to deploy CS without prior training. By default, this means that patrol officers deploying CS did so without the safeguards of training or policy.... [O]fficers not formally trained in use of CS may be unfamiliar with dispersal patterns, as well as proper first aid or decontamination procedures."
- The SPD recognized in its 2016 ISDM on Crowd Management the many deficiencies related to the use of traditional fixed riot lines. Tactically, fixed lines are "less flexible and ha[ve] a limited ability to de-escalate the crowd. Psychologically, "the appearance and nature of a 'hard line' may cause the crowd to be more antagonistic towards the police." The ISDM acknowledges "the value of perceived legitimacy and procedural justice when managing a crowd," and that where "the more the police are viewed as legitimate, the less likely there will be conflict." To that end, the SPD designed its crowd management tactics to avoid fixed lines, create distance, limit physical confrontation between the demonstrators and officers, and emphasize the need for cooperation and engagement with leaders of demonstrations. Yet those tactics were not followed. And although SPD training materials refer to the difficulties of applying these tactics to a confrontational crowd or less mobile crowd (such as the crowds near the East Precinct), "they offer few details on how to resolve these problems."
- Further, although the SPD has "wrestled with the problem of how to intervene against coordinated individuals who use a larger crowd to conceal acts of violence and property damage for years," it "has not developed a durable solution other than mobile bike officers. That solution is not workable in a large, fixed crowd as it is almost impossible for officers to safely enter the crowd and extract the individuals in question, especially if they are intent on disappearing into the larger crowd."
- The events at the East Precinct demonstrated the particular ineffectiveness of the SPD's de-escalation approaches. "Time did not appear to work, perhaps as SPD itself was the focus of the crowd's agitation." Distance was compromised by the nature of the fencing used at the East Precinct, which was "not suitable for enforcing distance between officers and protestors," or for providing shield. And by "engaging in extended skirmishes with protestors, SPD actually escalated the situation." For example, "by tossing blast balls and then allowing the crowd to re-approach or move the fencing, SPD de-legitimized its actions by making it appear as if force was used for no reason."
- "...briefings did not always occur," and "some briefings were not detailed enough to properly inform officers as to new objectives and situational changes."
- "Personnel stated it could be very difficult to hear instructions over the radio using existing equipment, particularly when wearing gas masks. If personnel cannot hear instructions clearly, they may misunderstand instructions and take action which unnecessarily or improperly escalates the situation."

specifically recognized by multiple oversight organizations:

• CPC:

"During discussions with SPD, the Department stated that Seattle boasts an average of 300+ demonstrations each year, with approximately 80 of those mentioned being monitored by police. Presuming purported numbers are correct, 26% of demonstrations are monitored by SPD annually. However, in recent months, the Department has attended a majority of demonstrations that are specifically rallying against police violence and brutality. Moreover, SPD's presence during protests was perceived by community as an intimidation tactic with a looming sense of threatening force, which was actualized.

The unsettling nature of SPD's presence during recent demonstrations is underlined by the way in which officers attended and presented – in riot gear, by the hundreds. It is unclear what intelligence was gathered by the Department to warrant such a response to planned peaceful protests, largely led by young people." <sup>126</sup>

• OPA:

"The recent protests in Seattle have been about police misconduct—not, for example, women's rights or the environment—which has posed a unique challenge for SPD. During protests, the police are generally responsible for protecting the public, preserving property, and mitigating traffic impacts. But when the protests are police-focused, they must also avoid escalating existing tensions with demonstrators unnecessarily.

It appears to OPA that, at times, SPD deployed large groups of officers for reasons that are unclear. Not only does this create the risk of unnecessary escalation, it also forces officers into a situation where they become targets for anyone in the crowd who seeks to engage or harm them. If police presence at a demonstration would not serve any apparent purpose, it may be more appropriate for officers to monitor it from a distance." <sup>127</sup>

5.151 After August 2020, Merrick Bobb resigned after seven years as the court-appointed monitor of the Justice Department-mandated reforms of the Consent Decree. In a letter authored on the eve of this resignation, Mr. Bobb expressed disappointment in the direction the SPD has taken:

COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES ON BEHALF OF BLACK LIVES MATTER PROTESTERS FOR WRONGFUL DEATH, PERSONAL INJURIES, AND CIVIL RIGHTS VIOLATIONS - 57

"Let me then first speak soberly about the recent demonstrations and protests. SPD's performance left many observers disappointed and crestfallen, if not disturbed profoundly by what looked like multiple instances of excessive force, as if lessons learned and techniques trained under the consent decree were lost, or, at least, set aside." <sup>128</sup>

5.152 Mr. Bobb described the SPD as currently being "at its nadir":

"Its performance during the recent demonstrations and protests betrayed a lack of adequate preparation and training, an apparent absence of an overall strategic plan or foreknowledge how to deal with violent interlopers without cutting off legitimate First Amendment activity by peaceful protesters, even if loud and challenging; inadequate subtlety and sophistication about the use of powerful and injurious nonlethal weaponry; a seeming lack at times of sensitivity to the First Amendment role of journalists and the moral and ethical role of medics; a willingness to call something a riot when it might have met some technical definition but was a far cry from a rebellion or stampede or even a melee merely so the SPD could use tear gas, a chemical agent banned for use in warfare after World War I." 129

- 5.153 On September 21, 2020, Mr. Bobb issued a formal report to Mayor Durkan and others about the SPD's use of crowd-control weapons. <sup>130</sup> The report concluded that "SPD's crowd management tactics during the recent demonstrations and protests were deficient" for a number of reasons, including:
  - "There was an apparent absence of an overall strategic plan to deal with violent individuals without significant prejudice to legitimate First Amendment activity by peaceful protesters. The SPD, like police departments across America, lacked seasoned and well-trained commanders to respond to the novel circumstances of the George Floyd and BLM protests. There also was a seeming lack at times of sensitivity to the First Amendment rights of journalists and the moral and ethical role of medics."
  - "In the absence of the strategic plan and well-trained commanders, there was a lack of adequate preparation and training of rank-and-file police officers and their supervisors. Seasoned and well-trained commanders should have been taking the actions of the crowd into consideration and making judgment calls based on the crowd size, actions,

- environment, and the law enforcement resources available to the commanders to manage the crowd. This is with the understanding that utmost care should be given to supporting constitutional rights."
- "There was a tendency to call something a riot when it might have met some technical definition but was not a rebellion or melee and did not constitute an overall imminent threat of death or serious physical injury. As a result of using the label of "riot," there followed indiscriminate and poorly controlled use of less- lethal tools, particularly tear gas and blast balls as described later in this memorandum."
- 5.154 The report noted that regardless of how quickly the BLM/George Floyd protests arose after Mr. Floyd's death,

"from WTO through Occupy to several May Days and other protests in Seattle and elsewhere, the SPD has had opportunities to learn and formulate plans for a variety of scenarios, including ones in which there was significant property destruction, looting, breaking of storefront glass, and attacks on police officers. Likewise, there were instances where persons bent on violence came from elsewhere to Seattle to throw bricks and bottles and be confrontational and provocative. In other words, SPD had seen much of this before and at an earlier time was able to ably manage crowds." 131

5.155 The BLM/George Floyd protests continue to this day. Without significant changes to how the SPD and its officers operate, there remains an unacceptable risk that peaceful protesters and bystanders will continue to be harmed by the SPD's excessive actions in the future.

Failure to Protect Protesters From Harm

- 5.156 SPD has both engaged in the excessive use of force and failed to exercise its duties to protect and serve the protesters.
- 5.157 The First Amendment contemplates that protesters may occupy public streets and sidewalks. The City and State may not abandon their legal duties because they disagree with or are irritated with protesters. As Judge Jones explained, once the protesters established their "public fora," officers needed to ensure public safety by cordoning off the area from vehicular traffic. 132

5.158 For additional detail regarding these claims, see below regarding Summer Taylor and Daniel Gregory.

The Plaintiffs

- 5.159 Plaintiffs were peacefully participating in the protests at the time of the incidents giving rise to this lawsuit.
  - 5.159.1 At all times Plaintiffs were engaged in the exercise of their rights to assemble and engage in free speech on the issues of racism, bigotry, and biased law enforcement against Black people, including the deaths of George Floyd and innumerable others both in state and around the country.
  - 5.159.2 The Plaintiffs did not engage in any criminal behavior. They did not strike nor attempt to strike any person including law enforcement either with their person or any sort of item or weapon. They did not commit any looting. They did not threaten any person or law enforcement officer with bodily harm.
- 5.160 Peaceful protesters in Seattle seek to raise public awareness and garner political action for the cause of BLM/George Floyd's death. They seek cultural influence the power of a movement to shape public opinion, language and everyday behavior. They seek disruption the power of a movement to make it more costly for people to support the status quo. They seek organizational power the transformation of the movement through change within institutions. It is the element of disruption that bothers most those (police) whom the protesters are protesting against. Yet disruption historically (i.e. sit-ins during the civil

12	5.170	The City and State knew of the risks posed to protesters, including risks from both
13		unsuspecting freeway motorists as well as drivers targeting protesters.

5.224 On May 31, 2020, 23-year-old John W. Kelliher ("Jack"), a recent college grad and business program manager at a large tech company, joined the BLM/George Floyd protests in downtown Seattle and later in Capitol Hill.

- 5.225 Mr. Kelliher was at all times a peaceful protester. He incorporates by reference paragraph 5.159, supra.
- 5.226 Around 4:30 pm, as Mr. Kelliher was walking on a crowded Capitol Hill sidewalk with other protesters, a line of SPD officers on bicycles approached from behind.
- 5.227 The pedestrians had the right-of-way on the sidewalk.
- 5.228 As the officers began to pass, one attempted to pass Mr. Kelliher on his right side where there was very little room to pass, and brushed up against Mr. Kelliher in the process.
- 5.229 Suddenly and without provocation, the officer jumped on Mr. Kelliher and placed his arm around his neck.
- 5.230 Mr. Kelliher raised his arms up to show he was peaceful and not resisting, but the officer threw him to the ground.

- 5.231 Around a dozen other officers on bicycles surrounded Mr. Kelliher while the first officer arrested him.
- 5.232 When Mr. Kelliher asked the officer why he put him in a chock hold the officer said, "he interpreted the brush-up as a push."
- 5.233 After his arrest, Mr. Kelliher was taken to a precinct where he was held and interrogated, then later transferred to the city jail.
- 5.234 Mr. Kelliher was later released on his own personal recognizance and was charged with obstructing a police officer.
- 5.235 Those charges have been dropped.
- 5.236 As a direct and proximate result of the City and SPD's excessive use of force and unlawful arrest of Mr. Kelliher, Mr. Kelliher suffered damages, including but not limited to:

Jenna Kinyon

- 5.237 28-year-old Jenna Kinyon, a welder who recently moved to the Seattle area, suffered injuries and damages at the hands of the City and SPD on two separate occasions.
- 5.238 Ms. Kinyon was at all times a peaceful protester. She incorporates by reference paragraph 5.159, supra.
- 5.239 On May 30, 2020, Jenna Kinyon went to downtown Seattle to peacefully protest the murder of George Floyd, and joined the crowds congregating near 4th and Stewart Street.
- 5.240 At 5:00 pm, Mayor Durkan's hastily announced curfew went into effect.
- 5.241 The protesters were not given sufficient notice about this curfew many did not know about it until after it had already gone into effect.
- 5.242 A bit before 5:00 pm, Ms. Kinyon could see that the police officers were getting antsy, trying to corral people around.

5.243 Public transportation and roads into/out of downtown also began closing prior to curfew, meaning protesters like Ms. Kinyon (who lives in Spanaway) were stuck downtown.

5.244 At 5:00 pm, the police started firing tear gas, flash bang grenades, blast balls, OC spray, and/or rubber bullets.

5.245 Shortly after 5:00 pm, Ms. Kinyon was standing with a group of protesters about 25 feet away from the police, when she was suddenly and without provocation hit in the stomach by a rubber bullet.

5.246 Ms. Kinyon paused briefly to retrieve the bullet that hit her. She then ran away from the police line into the crowd for safety, and then tried to get out of the downtown area, but could not leave due to the shutdown of public transportation and nearby streets.

5.247 As a direct and proximate result of the police shooting Ms. Kinyon with a rubber bullet, she suffered pain, trauma, and other damages, including but not limited to: a large contusion on her stomach. Ms. Kinyon also suffered infringement upon her constitutional rights.

1	5.248	On June 7, 2020, Ms. Kinyon went to Capitol Hill to peacefully protest with the Black
2		Lives Matter movement near the East Precinct barricade. She began playing her
3		drum/bucket and chanting with the crowd over her megaphone.
4	5.249	Around 7:45 pm, police and National Guard started approaching the barricade and
5		surrounding the protesters.
6	5.250	Suddenly and without provocation, the police began to throw/fire projectiles into the crowd
7		and pepper sprayed protesters in the face, causing panic within the crowd.
8	5.251	As this was happening SPD Officer Schoenberg approached Ms. Kinyon, pointed at her,
9		and yelled, "I'm gonna beat the shit out of you." Another officer threatened to pepper spray
10		her in the face.
11	5.252	After this, Ms. Kinyon continued peacefully protesting. Around 12:00 am, Ms. Kinyon was
12		in the front of the crowd, near the barricade, playing her drum.
13	5.253	The police attempted to move the protesters back, but Ms. Kinyon couldn't move very far
14		- stuck between a mass of protesters on one side and a line of officers on the other.
15	5.254	Suddenly, an officer grabbed Ms. Kinyon by the neck/collar and yanked her into the police
16		line, knocking Ms. Kinyon unconscious.
17	5.255	Ms. Kinyon does not know how long she was out. When she regained consciousness, she
18		was lying on the ground, behind the barricade, missing all of her protest equipment.
19	5.256	After EMTs provided her with some cursory treatment, the police moved her to a cell.
20	5.257	Ms. Kinyon was disoriented and on the verge of vomiting from the head injury she
21		sustained, yet she was not provided with further medical treatment.
22	5.258	While in the cell, an officer ripped away from Ms. Kinyon a blanket she had been provided
23		by the EMTs.

5.259 Ms. Kinyon was also placed in handcuffs – while still being held in the cell.

5.260 Eventually Ms. Kinyon was moved to King County and released later in the day on June 8, 2020.

5.261 Ms. Kinyon was charged with failure to disperse and obstructing a public officer. Those charges were dropped.

5.262 As a direct and proximate result of the excessive force used by the City and SPD, Ms. Kinyon suffered pain, trauma, and other damages, including but not limited to: concussion with loss of consciousness, neck pain, back pain, wrist pain, finger numbness, unlawful detainment, and the effects of being accused of a crime she did not commit. Ms. Kinyon also suffered infringement upon her constitutional rights.

5.265 Mr. Pickett was at all times peaceful. Mr. Pickett incorporates by reference paragraph 5.159, supra.

5.266 Mr. Pickett was clearly visible as media – he had his front "media" tassel, as well as a labeled hat and backpack.

- 5.267 About 10 minutes after he arrived the police deployed tear gas, dozens of flash bangs and/or blast balls, and started pushing the crowd towards Broadway. Mr. Picket did not see what precipitated this response, but to his eye, the crowds were peaceful.
- 5.268 Mr. Pickett was about 40-50 feet away from the police when a flash bang or blast ball exploded next to his foot.
- 5.269 The crowd moved away from the police and Mr. Pickett moved with them, intermittently taking photographs.

5.270 As he was walking on Pine Street between Broadway and 10th Avenue, Mr. Pickett was suddenly hit from behind by a baton round. At that point, no one was within 4-5 feet around him.

5.271 Mr. Picket fell over in pain and with tear gas in his eyes. Despite his pain, Mr. Picket got up and continued taking photographs, but he kept his distance, wary of getting injured again.

5.272 As a direct and proximate cause of the police chemical weapons, explosives, and impact projectiles at Mr. Picket, he suffered pain, trauma, and other damages, including but not limited to: contusions on his back and chemical irritants in his eyes. Mr. Pickett also suffered infringement upon his constitutional rights, including his rights as a member of the press.

Daniel Pierce

5.273 39-year-old Daniel Pierce came to Seattle to pursue his dream of becoming hair stylist in a diverse city. He regularly attended the BLM/George Floyd protests to witness and document the events, suffered injuries and damages at the hands of the City and SPD on three separate occasions.

- 5.274 Mr. Pierce was at all times a peaceful protester. Mr. Pierce incorporates by reference paragraph 5.159, supra.
- 5.275 Each day followed a similar pattern. Mr. Pierce arrived to the scene of the demonstration, made his way near the front line where protesters were faced with police phalanxes, and began filming/broadcasting via Facebook Live.
- 5.276 Mr. Pierce mostly stayed quiet documenting the scene, sometimes joining in chants and expressing his feelings, but never speaking with or agitating police officers.
- 5.277 On June 1, 2020, just after 9:00 pm, officers suddenly started using OC spray, tear gas, and

1		flash bang grenades/blast balls.
2	5.278	After stopping briefly to administer aid to people who were injured, Mr. Pierce ran away,
3		up 11 th Avenue toward the north end of Cal Anderson Park.
4	5.279	Other protesters were around him also running, shouting "rubber bullets" as Mr. Pierce
5		could hear the police firing their weapons.
6	5.280	Around 9:45pm, Mr. Pierce made his way to the corner of 11th and East Denny Way, where
7		officers once again fired upon the demonstrators.
8	5.281	On June 2, 2020, around 11:40 pm, Mr. Pierce was again peacefully taking part in the
9		Capitol Hill protests.
10	5.282	Suddenly, the police began to use tear gas, flash bang grenades/blast balls, and rubber
11		bullets on the crowd.
12	5.283	While fleeing, Mr. Pierce was exposed to various chemical irritants, which caused him to
13		have difficulty seeing and breathing.
14	5.284	On June 7, 2020, around 11:15 pm, Mr. Pierce was again peacefully protesting on Capitol
15		Hill, when officers began hosing the front line of protesters with pepper spray.
16	5.285	Just after midnight, a flash bang grenade/blast ball exploded mere feet in front of Mr.
17		Pierce, stunning him.
18	5.286	Shortly after that, Mr. Pierce was hit with tear gas that exploded directly in front of him.
19	5.287	His eyes began to burn and swelled shut, temporarily blinding him. His nostrils and throat
20		burned, and his skin was on fire.

5.289 As a direct and proximate result of the chemical weapons used on him by the SPD, Mr. Pierce suffered pain, trauma, and other damages, including but not limited to: difficulty seeing and breathing including exacerbation of his severe asthma, nausea, chemical burns, and PTSD. Mr. Pierce also suffered infringement upon his constitutional rights.

Joey Wieser

5.290 29-year-old Joey Wieser works as a YouTube channel manager for a local company.

Outside of work, he has spent the last several months documenting police interactions with

1		protesters by livestreaming those interactions as a freelance journalist.
2	5.291	Mr. Wieser was at all times a peaceful protester and a member of the independent media.
3		Mr. Wieser incorporates by reference paragraph 5.159, supra.
4	5.292	On June 1, 2020, around 5:45 p.m., Mr. Wieser joined protesters in a march from Westlake
5		Park to Capitol Hill. By 7:25 p.m. Mr. Wieser made it to the SPD's East Precinct and was
6		peacefully documenting the protests via photo and video.
7	5.293	At no time did he hear the SPD give an order to disperse or warn of the possible use of tear
8		gas or blast balls.
9	5.294	Suddenly, around 9-9:30 pm, he was exposed to loud blast balls, tear gas and pepper spray
10		as the police attempted to disperse the crowd.
11	5.295	On June 2, 2020, Mr. Wieser attended protests in Capitol Hill near the East Precinct. The
12		crowd was large, and although a few isolated people were throwing things like water
13		bottles, it was mostly peaceful. Suddenly, around 11:30 pm, the police indiscriminately
14		fired numerous projectiles including tear gas and blast balls - continuing even after the
15		crowd attempted to retreat.
16	5.296	On June 7, 2020, Mr. Wieser attended protests in Capitol Hill. Mr. Wieser was near the
17		front of a crowd facing dozens of officers amassed in full riot gear outside of the East
18		Precinct.
19	5.297	Shortly after midnight, a person from inside the crowd lobbed a water bottle over the
20		protesters in front of him. As the protesters at the front turned to chastise the protester who
21		threw the bottle, multiple officers began spraying OC spray at the numerous peaceful
22		protesters at the front of the crowd, including Mr. Wieser.
23	5.298	Mr. Wieser and the protesters backed up, some raising umbrellas to shield themselves from the worst of the gas. Within seconds, police began indiscriminately firing numerous projectiles including tear gas and blast balls into the crowd, some of which exploded near Mr. Wieser's arms, head, and feet. Only after this barrage began did the SPD issue a verbal order to disperse.

5.299 Although the protesters backed away from the mass of officers guarding the East Precinct, the SPD continued indiscriminately firing projectiles including blast balls and tear gas, many of which physically struck protesters including Mr. Wieser.

5.300 During this protest, Mr. Wieser witnessed the SPD deliberately fire a blast ball directly into the chest of another protester, Aubreanna Inda, who went into cardiac arrest three times due to her injuries. Later, Mr. Wieser also witnessed an unarmed Black man who was knocked to the ground with a rubber bullet, and Ned Farmer, a member of the media, who was rendered unconscious by a blast ball.

5.301 On July 1, 2020, Mr. Wieser attended protests in Capitol Hill. That morning the SPD had cleared out CHOP and the surrounding area by order of Mayor Durkan.

1	5.302	That evening lines of officers in full riot gear were enforcing that order at the borders of
2		the cleared out zone – using flimsy yellow caution tape and "No Parking" A-frame signs
3		as the "barrier" between the enforcement zone and the areas where protesters were allowed
4		to assemble, verbally instructing protesters to stay behind the edge of the crosswalk, and
5		periodically advancing and retreating the line of officers in a haphazard and seemingly
6		arbitrary manner.
7	5.303	During this encounter, Mr. Wieser was exposed multiple times to blast balls launched into
8		and even behind the crowd.
9	5.304	On July 2, 2020, Mr. Wieser attended protests in Capitol Hill. Like the day before, the
10		protest took place on the edge of the cleared out zone where CHAZ/CHOP had been. And
11		like the day before, the police were enforcing that zone in a similar manner.
12	5.305	Suddenly and without warning, around 12:30 am, the SPD rushed forward, and Mr. Wieser
13		was sprayed in the face with OC spray.
14	5.306	On July 25, 2020, Mr. Wieser attended protests in Capitol Hill. This was the weekend the
15		SPD engaged in an "all-out assault" on civilians, and that led to the August 10, 2020
16		revision of the federal court's Preliminary Injunction, adding to its protections.
17	5.307	The SPD used blast balls, OC spray, and physical violence to force the protesters to move
18		back, over and over.
19	5.308	During this process, despite moving back, being peaceful, and announcing himself as
20		media, Mr. Wieser was shoved by an officer, and then hit in the mouth and face with OC
21		spray. Mr. Wieser was also exposed to other chemical irritants used generally on the
22		protesters.

5.312 Around midnight, Ms. Williams heard the police instructing the crowd to disperse.

5.313 Ms. Williams attempted to follow the order, but was confused about where to disperse, as the police did not direct the crowd.

5.314 Ms. Williams was standing on the sidewalk, trying to get her bearing, looking for the best way to leave the area.

5.315 Suddenly, before she could find a path out, the police began to deploy tear gas and other projectiles.

5.316 Ms. Williams was hit multiple times – two projectiles exploded near her legs, one hit her forearm, and she was sprayed with green dye.

5.317 As a direct and proximate result chemical weapons used on her by the SPD, Ms. Williams suffered pain, trauma, and other damages, including but not limited to: a bone contusion, nerve damage, muscle damage, chemical burns, and PTSD. Ms. Williams also suffered infringement upon her constitutional rights.

4		a direct and proximate result of these violations, Plaintiffs suffered damages.
5		X. WA CONST, ART. 1, SEC. 4 UNCONSTITUTIONAL RESTRAINTS AND PUNISHMENT ON FREE SPEECH AND ASSEMBLY
7	10.1	Under the Washington State Constitution Article I, Section 4, "The right of petition and of
8		the people peaceably to assemble for the common good shall never be abridged." This
9		Section is the State law equivalent of part of the First Amendment of the United States
10		Constitution. It guarantees the right to be free of unreasonable restraints on or
11		consequences to peaceful assembly for a cause, such as the anti-racism cause of the
12		peaceful protester plaintiffs.
13	10.2	While State and local governments are allowed to place reasonable restrictions on protests,
14		subject to arrest and due process, they may not deter or punish constitutionally protected
15		speech with threats or use of violence.
16	10.3	The peaceful protester plaintiffs were exercising their constitutionally protected rights to
17		assemble in support of anti-racism in policing and the judicial system, as well as anti-police
18		brutality, which our Supreme Court has repeatedly recognized as an ongoing and pervasive
19		threat to the justice system and society as a whole.
20	10.4	The SPD responded to the peaceful protester plaintiffs' message of anti-racism and anti-
21		police brutality with violence.
22	10.5	The SPD's unreasonable and disproportionate conduct was motivated by the anti-racism and anti-police brutality viewpoints being expressed by the peaceful protester plaintiffs.

1	10.6	The SPD's conduct had the purpose and effect of chilling plaintiffs and others like them
2		from exercising their rights to peaceful assembly.

code. 1 2 12.3 The above-described conduct by Defendant City of Seattle (through the SPD) violated 3 SMC 14.12. 12.4 As a direct and proximate result of these violations, Plaintiffs suffered damages. 4 5 12.5 Pursuant to the bargaining agreement between the City and SPOG, 78% of President 6 Solan's salary is paid by the City for "maintaining skills and training as a police officer 7 and all time spent dealing with the City in labor-management meetings, grievances, or other such duties," and 22% by SPOG for "Guild business." <sup>143</sup> 8 9 12.6 At all times, Mr. Solan remains a Seattle Police Officer, whose conduct may unlawfully 10 chill free speech (as well as foster systemic racism and excessive force). 11 12.7 On information and belief, President Solan's false and derogatory remarks as generally 12 described above, occurred during time allotted for, and paid by, the Seattle Police Department. 13 12.8 14 President Solan's remarks were intended to disrupt lawful political activity, in violation of 15 SMC 14.12.350. WASHINGTON LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION XIII. 16 13.1 The Washington Law Against Discrimination (WLAD) prohibits discrimination and 17 preserves "[t]he right to be free from discrimination." RCW 49.60.030(1). It is an exercise 18 of the police power of the state for the protection of the public welfare, health, and peace 19 of the people of this state, and in fulfillment of the provisions of the Constitution of this 20 state concerning civil rights. In enacting this act the legislature found that discrimination 21 threatens not only the rights and proper privileges of this state's inhabitants but menaces 22
