CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AND PUNITIVE DAMAGES

Now come the plaintiffs, William Bandy, Toby Lee, LuShawn Smith, Mark Williams, Clarence Stokes, Fred Thompson, Clarence Royster, Antawon Marshall, Nerville Cox and Cleophus Marshall, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, by their attorneys Kinoy, Taren & Geraghty P.C, and hereby complain against the defendant Roadway Express, Inc. as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. This class action race discrimination case is brought pursuant to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Reconstruction Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1981, to redress the defendant's practice and policy of ignoring and failing to promptly investigate or remedy racial harassment directed at African-American employees, its failure to adopt EEO policies that conform to industry-wide standards and its failure to eliminate a racially hostile environment. Plaintiffs additionally assert claims with regard to discriminatory job assignments and discipline on the basis of race.

The plaintiffs herein were routinely subjected to racial epithets and threats, including multiple instances of hangman's nooses displayed at the workplace. At all times relevant to this case, the defendant has had an ineffective anti-harassment policy that requires its employees to make all complaints about harassment in writing to its General Counsel at its corporate offices in Ohio before any effective action would be taken to redress the problem. Each of the plaintiffs herein were also disciplined at a rate greater than comparably situated non-Black employees and as a result of the overly subjective policies and practices at Roadway with regard to job assignments, regularly were assigned to less desirable jobs than non-Black employees.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. This court has jurisdiction over defendant pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 1343. Venue is proper in the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division since the unlawful practices occurred within this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) and (c). Members of the Plaintiff class reside in Illinois and within the Northern District.

III. PARTIES

3. Intervening Plaintiff William Bandy is a 46-year-old African American citizen of the United States. Mr. Bandy resides in Merrillville, Indiana. Mr. Bandy has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for over twenty (20) years and currently works at its Chicago Heights facility.

4. Intervening Plaintiff Toby Lee is a 31-year-old African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Lee resides in Park Forest, Illinois. Mr. Lee has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past eleven (11) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

5. Intervening Plaintiff LuShawn Smith is an African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Smith resides in Richton Park , Illinois. Mr. Smith has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past eleven (11) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

6. Intervening Plaintiff Mark Williams is an African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Williams resides in Calumet City, Illinois. Mr. Williams has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past fourteen (14) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past fourteen (14) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

9. Intervening Plaintiff Clarence Royster is a 35-year-old African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Royster resides in Merrillville, Indiana. Mr. Royster been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past fourteen (14) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

10. Intervening Plaintiff Antawon L. Marshall is a 37-year-old African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Marshall resides in Merrillville, Indiana. Mr. Marshall has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past eighteen (18) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

11. Intervening Plaintiff Nerville Cox is an African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Cox resides in Crown Point, Indiana. Mr. Cox has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for eight (8) years at its Chicago Heights and Elk Grove Village facilities.

12. Intervening Plaintiff Cleophus Marshall is a 34-year-old African-American citizen of the United States. Mr. Marshall resides in University Park, Illinois. Mr. Marshall has been employed as a dockworker for defendant Roadway Express for the past fourteen (14) years at its Chicago Heights facility.

13. Roadway Express, Inc., is a corporation doing business in the State of Illinois and the City of Chicago Heights, Illinois. At all relevant times, Roadway has continually had in excess of fifteen (15) employees and has been an employer engaged in an industry affecting commerce within the meaning of Sections 701(b),(g) and (h) of Title VII, 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e(b),(g) and (h).

14. Defendant Roadway Express Inc. is engaged in the business of worldwide ground transportation. Roadway employs over 23,900 employees in 349 service centers, including the service center located in Chicago Heights, Illinois, where each of the named plaintiffs are employed. In December of 2003, Roadway merged with and became a subsidiary of YRC Roadway Inc., a global shipping company. As of 2003, the Chicago Heights Terminal reported that it employed more than 1,650 employees.

IV. CLASS ALLEGATIONS

14. Plaintiffs bring this action individually and pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3) on behalf of all African-American employees of Roadway who have been employed as a dockworker at defendant's Chicago Heights and/or Elk Grove Village facilities during the applicable statute of limitations. Each of the representative plaintiffs and class members assert claims arising out of the same unlawful conduct as that alleged in Mr. Comer's timely EEOC charge and are aggrieved persons pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

16. The members of the class identified herein are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Roadway currently operates 349 service centers throughout the United States employing approximately 23,900 employees. Upon information and belief, approximately 25% of the 1,650 employees working at Roadway's Chicago Heights and the Elk Grove Village satellite facility are African-American.

17. There are questions of law and fact common to the class, which questions predominate over any questions affecting only individual members. Common questions include, among others: (1) Whether Roadway's policy and practice of refusing to investigate complaints of racial harassment or discrimination unless an employee presents a written complaint to the defendant's General Counsel, created, authorized, fostered and tolerated a racially hostile environment; (2) Whether Roadway has created and tolerated a racially hostile atmosphere at its Chicago Heights and/or Elk Grove Village facility for which it is vicariously liable; (3) Whether Roadway's purely subjective daily job assignment policy had the intent and/or effect of discriminating against Black employees by assigning them less desirable tasks than non-Black employees policy; (4) Whether Roadway's purely subjective disciplinary policy had the intent and/or effect of discriminating against Black employees by disciplining them at a greater rate and more harshly than non-Black employees; (5) Whether the practices and policies of Roadway violate 42 U.S.C. § 1981 and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, warranting injunctive relief, and punitive damages.

18. The representative Intervening Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the class. The representative Intervening Plaintiffs each are actively employed by Roadway. Each of the representative plaintiffs was subjected to severe and pervasive racial harassment while employed by defendant during the applicable statute of limitations and each has been subject to discriminatory terms and conditions of employment based upon his race.

19. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the members of the class. Each of the Intervening Plaintiffs has retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class actions, employment discrimination litigation and the intersection thereof. Kinoy, Taren & Geraghty P.C. have been certified as class counsel in numerous cases in the Northern District of Illinois and elsewhere including Miller v. Spring Valley, 202 F.R.D. 244 (C.D. Ill. 2001) (class action under Fair Housing Act); Tracy v. City of Chicago, 95 C 5714 (collective action under FLSA on behalf of sergeants, lieutenants and captains in the Chicago Police Department); Johnson et. al. v. Reno, (D.C. Cir.) No. 93-5364 (nationwide Title VII class action brought on behalf of 512 African-American FBI agents alleging racial discrimination in all areas of employment); Dyer-Neely v. City of Chicago, 101 F.R.D. 83 (N.D. Ill. 1984) (class action under the federal Rehabilitation Act on behalf of applicants for positions within the Chicago Police Department).

20. Class certification is appropriate pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P 23(b)(2) because Roadway has acted and/or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the class, making declaratory and injunctive relief proper with respect to Intervening Plaintiffs and the class as a whole. The class members are entitled to injunctive relief to end Roadway's common, uniform and unfair racially discriminatory personnel policies and practices and are entitled to punitive damages as a result of defendant's willful, malicious or reckless conduct.

21. Class certification is also appropriate pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) for punitive damages because common questions of fact and law predominate over any questions affecting only individual members of the class and because a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this litigation. The class members have been damaged and are entitled to recovery as a result of Roadway's common, uniform and unfair racially discriminatory personnel policies and practices. The propriety and amount of punitive damages are issues common to the class.

V. CLASS CERTIFICATION PURSUANT TO RULE 23(b)(2) FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF PURPOSES AND PURSUANT 23(b)(2), 23(d)(2) and (5) and 23(b)(3) FOR CLASS-WIDE PUNITIVE DAMAGES

22. Plaintiffs seek class certification pursuant to Rule 23(b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for the purpose of obtaining class-wide injunctive relief to redress the above company-wide racially discriminatory policies, in accordance with Allen v. International Truck and Engine Corporation, 358 F.3d 469 (7th Cir. 2004); Jefferson v. Ingersoll Intern Inc., 195

F.3d 894 (7th Cir. 1999); Palmer v. Combined Insurance Company of America, 217 F.R.D. 430 (N.D. Il. 2003).

23. Plaintiffs seek class certification for the purpose of obtaining class-wide punitive damages, pursuant to both Rule 23(b)(2) and 23(d)(2) and (d)(5) and Rule 23(b)(3), as in Palmer v. Combined Insurance Company of America, 217 F.R.D. 430 (N.D. Il. 2003).

VI. EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES UNDER TITLE VII

24. On April 16, 2003, former intervener Kenneth Comer filed a class action administrative complaint alleging that from on or about April 15, 2001 and continuing to that time, he and Blacks as a class have been subjected to ongoing racial harassment and discrimination by defendant .

25. The EEOC investigated Mr. Comer's charge and found reasonable cause to believe that racial harassment and discrimination in the terms and conditions of employment against blacks as a class had taken place. On September 6, 2006, the EEOC brought suit to enforce the provisions of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, based upon Mr. Comer's complaint. Each of the intervening plaintiffs is a member of the class upon whose behalf Comer's EEOC complaint was filed and the EEOC lawsuit was brought.

VI. ROADWAY'S INEFFECTIVE AND INTIMIDATING "ANTI-HARASSMENT" INTERNAL COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

26. At all times relevant hereto, the defendant has maintained an alleged anti-harassment policy that requires its 23,900 employees of Roadway to present any complaints of racial harassment or discrimination in writing to Roadway's Office of General Counsel in Akron, Ohio before any investigation or action to remedy the complaint can take place. This harassment has been an ongoing continuing violation.

27. Each of the named plaintiffs has experienced acts of racial harassment, including being subject to vile racial graffiti at the workplace and/or having hangman's nooses placed at his worksite.

28. The defendant's anti-harassment complaint process is designed more to insulate defendant from legal action than it is to uncover acts of harassment and take prompt and effective action to prevent further harassment. The defendant's policy creates an immediate conflict of interest between the office of legal counsel's duty to protect Roadway from legal liability and its duty to investigate and uncover acts of racial harassment at the workplace.

29. Plaintiffs have been and remain reluctant to communicate their complaints of racial harassment to defendant's attorney in order to obtain any redress for incidents of workplace harassment.

V. REPRESENTATIVES CLAIMS

A. FAILURE TO REDRESS RACIALLY HOSTILE ENVIRONMENTS

30. During the course of Intervening Plaintiffs' employment at defendant's Chicago Heights facility, they and virtually all other African-American employees were at various times subjected to almost daily racial epithets written in the men's bathroom, including "KKK", "Niggers go back to Africa", "Make America Safe, Kill a Nigger Today" and "swastikas written and carved into the walls.

31. In March of 2002, a hangman's noose was placed on Ken Comer's forklift at defendant's workplace. That noose was observed by several of the other plaintiffs.

32. On June 22, 2002, death threats to African-American employees were written in the bathroom of defendant's workplace.

33. In October 2002, a hangman's noose was placed on a Roadway truck where it was discovered by intervening plaintiff Thompson. Hours after Thompson complained and gave the noose to his supervisor, the same noose was placed at the work area of two other African-American employees. This noose was observed by plaintiffs Smith and Williams.

34. In October of 2002, a white employee was observed riding a forklift with a hangman's noose dangling from it.

35. In October of 2002, a noose was placed on a jeep intended for a Black employee's use.

36. In June of 2003, a hangman's noose was placed on a trailer being unloaded by plaintiff Comer.

37. In 2002 or 2003, co-workers wrote "Toby is a Nigger" in large letters on a box at Plaintiff Lee's workstation. In addition, Mr. Lee has observed a hangman's noose on Marty James' forklift, on Aaron Lucas's work station and behind supervisor Bob Sullivan's desk.

38. In August of 2003, a noose was placed on a trailer being unloaded by Tyrone Martin.

39. Throughout the above period of time, through and including May of 2004, racist graffiti including KKK references was repeatedly present in the bathroom utilized by African-American dockworkers and others at the Chicago Heights facility.

40. In September of 2006, a figurine of a Black man with a noose around its neck was placed on intervening plaintiff Stokes' forklift at the Elk Grove Village facility. When shown the figurine, Stokes' supervisor just laughed and started to take it down. Since the filing of the EEOC's complaint in this case, Black employees at Elk Grove Village have been harassed, demeaned and threatened with termination by supervisory employees; with the terminal manager repeatedly asking them in a sarcastic voice, “Am I discriminating against you?”.

41. The above actions constitute severe and pervasive harassment designed to instill fear in the African-American employees who work at the Chicago Heights and Elk Grove Village facilities. These actions unreasonably interfere with the plaintiffs’ ability to perform their jobs.

B. NOTICE TO DEFENDANT AND FAILURE TO TAKE EFFECTIVE ACTION

42. In January of 2001, plaintiffs and others met with the Terminal Manager to complain about incidents of racial discrimination. Immediately thereafter, vile racial graffiti appeared in the bathroom.

43. In March of 2002, Ken Comer complained in writing to the Terminal Manager about the presence of a hangman’s noose in the workplace.

44. From June of 2002 through the present, numerous incidents of racial harassment were brought to the attention of supervisors and the Terminal Manager by various of the plaintiffs.

45. In November of 2002, a detailed list of racially harassing events, including the noose incidents and racist threats to African-Americans, was forward to the Chicago Heights facility Labor Relations Manager, by the plaintiffs’ union representative.

46. The company did not respond to the above until January 2, 2003 when the Labor Relations Manager informed the union that company policy dictates that allegations of racial discrimination and harassment not be handled locally. The Labor Relations Manager told the union to have the complaining employee write a letter to the company’s Office of General Counsel.

47. Despite the above incidents and complaints, the defendant never conducted an effective investigation to determine who may have been responsible the racially hostile acts. Employees were not questioned in an effort to determine who had participated in the incidents or to determine whether there were witnesses to the incidents. Law enforcement authorities were not brought in to investigate despite the fact presence of racial threats. And no effective measures were undertaken to prevent continued incidents of racial harassment from taking place.

48. In March of 2003, Mr. Comer sent a written complaint to Roadway's Office of General Counsel concerning the racially hostile atmosphere at the facility. Thereafter, the defendant conducted a superficial, ineffective investigation of the incidents and took no effective action to stop the incidents from occurring. As a result, additional acts of racial harassment continued to occur at the workplace.

49. In 2006, Plaintiff Cox complained to Human Resources representative Roger Maco about racist statements being made to him by a White foreman. On March 15, 2007, Mr. Cox informed Maco that Terminal Manager Phill Mott had threatened to retaliate against the Black employees, telling Cox that "You guys are taking this f**** company under ground. I'm going to keep banging you with letters until I get rid of you." Mott further stated that he had heard about "this f**** lawsuit" and that he didn't "give a f*** about the EEOC." Maco promised to investigate and get back to Cox. As of one week later, Cox has heard nothing.

50. Various other Intervening plaintiffs have at various times complained to supervisors, foremen, assistant terminal managers and terminal managers about racist activities on the dock.

C. Discriminatory Job Assignments

51. Roadway utilizes a subjective policy of allowing foremen to assign the stacking and unstacking of trailers to individual dockworkers with no guidelines for determining who is assigned to difficult loads and who is assigned to easy loads. As a result, African-American employees as a class, are regularly assigned the least desirable loads by the foremen, the vast majority of whom are non-Black. These loads are euphemistically referred to as “brotherloads.”

52. On at least one occasion in 2006, plaintiff Cox complained to foreman Matt LaPier, asking him “why we are getting such a bad trailer.” LaPier told him, “That trailer is for the Black people.”

D. Discriminatory Disciplinary System

53. Roadway utilizes a disciplinary system that authorizes foremen to give disciplinary letters to employees that they believe have committed workplace infractions. After a certain number of disciplinary letters are received, an employee can be suspended and/or terminated. Foreman, assistant terminal managers and terminal managers are also authorized to withdraw disciplinary letters from an employee’s file.

54. Roadway’s disciplinary system has the intent and/or effect of discriminating against African-American employees on the basis of their race. Black employees are given disproportionately more disciplinary letters and receive harsher punishments, including suspensions and terminations, than non-Black employees. In addition, managerial employees are less likely to withdraw a disciplinary letter for a White employee once it has been given than they are for a Black employee.

55. White foremen regularly walk past White employees in the break room and write up Black employees for not getting back to work. Similar actions regularly take place on the dock, where Black employees receive disciplinary letters for “Misuse of Company Time” while White employees are engaging in the identical conduct.

56. For example, in 2003, a supervisor wrote up Plaintiff Smith for Misuse of Company Time and then walked over to several White employees and told them “I just wrote two Blacks up. You guys have got to look busy.”

57. In 2005, foreman Matt LaPier told a group of White employees to get to work because “We’re going to write the niggers some letters.”

58. In May of 2005, Bob Sullivan gave plaintiff Toby Lee a “Misuse Letter” for having a one-hour gap in his scans while a similarly situated White employee with a 3-hour gap that same day was not written up. Mr. Lee was temporarily suspended as a result of that discipline.

59. Foreman Michael Connelly has walked past an entire line of White employees who were talking on the job, and given a disciplinary letter to Intervening Plaintiff Toby Lee.

60. In the fall of 2006, foreman Mike Harvey wrote disciplinary letters up on Plaintiffs Mark Williams and Antawon Marshall while ignoring similar conduct on the part of White employees.

61. In February of 2007, two Black employees, along with another White employee, received disciplinary letters for coming to work forty-five (45) minutes late during a snowstorm. A White foreman “pulled” the White employee’s letter. The Black employees were unable to get a foreman to remove their letters.

62. On March 25, 2007, a white supervisor ordered plaintiff Bandy and other Black workers to get back to work and then sat down with a group of White workers who were playing cards, allowing them to remain in the break room for at least ten more minutes.

63. Each of the representative Intervening Plaintiffs has received disciplinary actions, up to and including letters of discipline, suspensions and terminations, that constituted unlawful discrimination based upon race.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Racially Hostile Environment in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
42 U.S.C. § 2000 et seq.
