(In reply, please refer to case number 10-14-6001)

Dear President Gamble:

The Office for Civil Rights (OCR) of the U.S. Department of Education (Department) enforces Federal civil rights laws that prohibit discrimination on the bases of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, and age by educational institutions that receive Federal financial assistance. OCR is responsible for investigating individual complaints of discrimination and is also required to conduct periodic proactive compliance reviews of recipient practices to determine whether they comply with the laws that OCR enforces.

Compliance reviews are designed to address systemic issues and ensure that violations are readily identified and promptly eliminated. Compliance review sites are selected based on various sources of information, including statistical data and information from parents, advocacy groups, the media, and community organizations.

I write to advise you that OCR has selected the University of Alaska System (University) for a compliance review under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., and its implementing regulation, 34 C.F.R. Part 106, which prohibit discrimination based on sex in education programs or activities operated by recipients of Federal financial assistance. The University receives funds from the Department and is therefore is subject to Title IX and the regulation.

This compliance review will examine the University's handling of complaints and reports of sexual harassment, including sexual violence, to determine if the University has responded promptly and effectively, with particular emphasis on complaints of sexual assault. It should be emphasized that at this time OCR has reached no conclusion as to whether a violation of any federal law exists.

U.S. Secretary of Education Arne Duncan is committed to ensuring that all students are afforded equal educational opportunities. We believe the information and any results from this compliance review will have a direct and positive impact on students at the University. We look forward to working with you in this review.

OCR's Seattle enforcement office will conduct this compliance review. Gary D. Jackson, OCR's Director in Seattle, will contact officials at the University within a week of the date of this letter to make arrangements for the next steps in the compliance review process, including requesting access to data and personnel.
